HENRY GEORGE ACCEPTS.

THE CHICAGO CANDIDATE FOR

Jennings Bryan - A Large Gathering of Silver Democrats,

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 .- Henry George accepted the nomination for Mayor of Greater New York at Cooper Union to-

It was in the same hall and before many of the same people that he accepted the nomination eleven years ago.

In 1886, he received 68,000 votes. To night's gathering was the greatest outpouring of the people seen in this city were opened at 7:15 and in less than two minutes every seat in the big hall was occupied and the aisles as far as the permitted, were crowded. dreds were turned away during the next fifteen minutes and by 8 o'clock several thousands, unable to gain admission, as-sembled outside and held open air meet-ings in the plaza, which were addressed by local speakers. Jerome O'Neill, of the Central Labor Union, presided, In his address the chairman mentioned the Chicago platform, whereupon the entire audience rose to its feet as one man, hats and handworkless were waved in the and handkerchiefs were waved in the air and the cheering continued for several minutes. The secretary then read the following telegram from T. M. Walsh, secretary of the National Committee and member of the committee from Iowa; ENCOURAGING TELEGRAMS.

This was followed by a frantic outburst of cheering and the nomination was made by acclamation. The secretary then read the following platform, which was adopted.

The platform has the following to say in d to the National platform ing the week and the inscriptious from robbing the boriest and to be for equal benefit of all such things as can be better done by organized society than by individuals; and we aim at the abolition of all laws which give to any class of clizens advantages either judicial, financial, industrial or political, that are not equally shared by all others."

While all this work was going on Mr George was still absent from the hall. When he entered, accompanied by Tom L. Johnson, the audience again arose with more invor than before, if that were possible, and for several minutes there was a wild hurricane of cheering A. It. Cruickshank, of the United Democracy, then formally tendered the nomination on behalf of that organization to Mr. George Charles Frederick Adams, on behalf of the Democratic Alliance, then offered to Mr. George the nomination of the organization which he represented.

James T. Garvey, of the People's party, and John H. Crosby, of the Manhattan Single Tax Club, also notified Mr. George or in somination by their respective organizations.

MR. GEORGE'S ACCEPTANCE.

The rising of Mr. George was the signal for another outburst of cheering. Mr. George sald:

The rising of Mr. George was the signal for another outburst of cheering. Mr. George said:

"Fellow-Democrats, men who voted last year for William Jennings Bryan, i accept your nomination. From now until election closes I am yours. Aye, and after election, too; I am a Democrat." (Thunderous applause and cries of "Not of the Hill strine.")

"I cannot divide into parts the questions which I, as a citizen, have to deal with for the same reason that I oppose this monstrous tariff in all its forms, for the same reason that I would vote wherever I could for the utter abolition of that tariff. for that same reason I am opposed to the interference with individual libertly which you see in New York. I am a Democrat in the Jeffersonian sense because I believe in the principles and stand for the principle and philosophy of those of Jefferson.

"It was for that I voted at the last election, because the Chicago platform represented the idea of giving to the mental I stood for it, and was sorrier than I was ever before when it was defeared."

Mr. George then declared that he had not sought the nomination. That it was repusant to him, but that he accepted it for the cause of Democracy.

Mr. George spoke for twenty-five minutes. Immediately after the conclusion of his speech the meeting was declared adover the press tables to the platform and took turns in shaking the hand of Mr. George.

SENATOR DANIEL HERE,

A Conference With Mr. Ellyson as to Fu-

Senator John W. Daniel came to Richmond last night, and went to the residence of Major James D. Patton, whose guest he will be to-night.

He was at the house of Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson with Major Patton during the evening.

Mr. Ellyson said to a Times reporter, who called there, that the Senator would spend the night in Richmond, and go to Fredericksburg on the early train to-day. From there he will go to King George Court House, where he is to address the voters Thursday, the court day of the county.

county.

There was no conference to be held between the Senator and Mr. Ellyson, regarding political matters, except that certain future appointments for public speaking in the county would be arranged for Senator Daniel.

As the Senator was not at the late meeting of the State and Executive Committees and wants to meet the party leaders, it is probable they will soon be called in consultation with him.

Some interesting cases will come up at the meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee at its coming meeting, among them being the decision as to who was regularly chosen when two conventions were recently held at Williamsburg and between Mr. Edward Pasemore and Dr. A. A. Neblitt, both of whom claim to be the regular nominees from Lunghburg, although chosen by different conventions.

In Brunswick there is also another case which may be considered. Dr. R. S. Powell is the regular party nominee, and Mr.
E. P. Buford is running as an independent Democrat without the slightest sanction from the party.

The Numerical Increase Explained-Only Three Deaths in New Orleans_Res ports From Other Places.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Oct. 5.—After two days of improvement and of promise, the fever situation on the face of the record took somewhat of a turn to-day. For forty-eight hours there had been no deaths, and yesterday the number of cases had shown material falling off from the day before. Early this morning, however, the reports of new cases began to come in to the Board of Health office with considerable rapidity, and by 1 o'clock there had been fifteen cases reported, and by 7 o'clock to-night all previous records of this season had been broken, so far as new cases were concerned. THE LAST STROKE, Scored a Great Success at the Academy Last Night. "The Last Stroke" is a great patriotic designed to thrill the audience, and play designed to thrill the audience, and the purpose for which it was designed was faithfully carried out by a capable company before an audience of good proportions at the Academy last night.

The play starts in with a slight tremor and some love, and the little sparks kindle and grow until, long before the last scene, the thrills follow each other in such successions that they probably count up to sixty:thrills a minute.

And the audience likes it. So well did they like the thrills that a great shout of applause went up as the curtain went down on the last act, not because they were giad the show was over, but because the play pleased them so well that they couldn't hold in.

The plot is an easy one, and few improbabilities are introduced. The Spanish spy makes himself hated by the audience and the humor and maniy qualities introduced by the American volunteers and the Consul-General, stir up the patriotic nature so that the audience bubbles over.

The entire cast was well balanced and no one performer deserves praise above another.

General Fitzhugh Lee and daughter were interested auditors. the purpose for which it was designed broken, so far as new cases were concerned.

In a few hours three deaths had also been reported to the board. The physician's were not at a loss to explain the increased cases. They took the view that it might be expected that numerous cases would still continue daily to be reported.

CAUNE OF THE INCREASE.

Dr. Oliphant said to-night:
"The stern enforcement of the law requiring all the physicians to report promptly both suspicious and actual cases of yellow fever has had a material effect in increasing the number of cases. As the rule the numerical increase of cases is due to the fact that we have so organized our lorces that the corps of the Board of iteath is now so large and the activity of the public in ferreting out new cases

Health is now so large and the activity of the public in ferreting out new cases so great, that few if any new cases are escaping attention and prompt report.

Two of the deaths to-day were somewhat of a surprise. Little was known of the case of Cecil Spies. She had not been reported as a patient likely to succumb to the disease. Baptiste Salomon died rather suddenly. An examination after death proved conclusively that the man had been a victim of the prevailing sickness. Miss Scannell's case was reported some days ago.

THE INJUNCTIONS FUTILE.

The Hoffman Faction Elect Officers for th Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad,

NORFOLK, VA., Oct. 5.—The annual meeting of stockholders of the Seaboard and Roanoke railroad was held in Portsmouth to-day, and was largely attended by stockholders and their attorneys. The meeting was a very important and interesting one, by reason of the fight between the Hoffman and Ryan factions for the control of the stock of this road, and incidentally of the Seaboard Air Line system, of which this road is a part. A large proportion of the 15,000 shares of stock of the road was represented, either personally or by proxy.

A sensation was caused early in the meeting by the service of an injunction order from State Circuit Judge Prentis upon Thomas Ryan and his associates, restraining them from voting their stock, on the ground that said stock had been transferred in violation of the laws of the company. NORFOLK, VA., Oct. 5 .- The annua transferred in violation of the laws of the company.

A little later Deputy United States Marshal Cross entered with an injunction order granted by United States Circuit Judge Simonton, restraining President R. Curzon Hoffman L. R. Watts and others from voting stock held by them.

The Hoffman faction, however, had about 9,000 shares of stock besides that which they were enjoined from voting, and re-elected R. Curzon Hoffman president and the old Board of Directors, with the exception that Charles Chauncey and W. R. Tucker were chosen, vice Moncure Robinson, deceased, and W. W. Fuller.

The two injunctions were heeded, the election being accomplished without violating them.

election being accomplished without hating them.

C. W. Walker, former master machinist of the road, and W. J. Edwards, former purchasing agent, in affidavits filed by them, charged President Hoffman with reduiring them to purchase supplies for the road from R. C. Hoffman & Co., at exception prices, and for inferior goods.

These affidavits are a part of the procedure of the opponents of Hoffman to oust him from the management of the road.

Women Who Dress in Paris.

The latest fad among women in London and Paris is dressing in pairs, that is, two women when going out together dress alike in every particular. An American, who has just returned from a trip abroad, said in speaking of the craze:

"I was much astonished on my first drive in the park to notice so many wom-en gowned exactly alike. I had never heard of the fad, so of course quite natuneard of the fad, so of course quite nactivally supposed the first pair to be sisters, possibly twins. Then seeing the same sight so often I began to notice that the women often appeared to be widely separated in point of age. I was puzzled and finally astonished when an acquam-tance of former years drove by with her double in point of dress. She was a woman who had never had a sizter; yet there she sat with a woman, apparently about the same age and almost the same coloring.

"You may be sure that before I slet:
that night I learned the reason for the that night I learned the reason for the apparent frequency of twins in London. But when I learned it was a fad my surprise was not at all diminished. In alarge part of this region, according to Professor Kovalik, the air is so dry and the winds are so rare that the intensity of the cold cannot be fully realized. In the most distant mart of the East there are sometimes terrible storms, which are most fatal to life in their consequences. During the summer time the teamerature occasionally rises to 53 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade, while it freezes at night. The latter part of the season is often marked by coplous rains, and extensive inundations, which invariably lay waste a vast acreage of land and prove to be a serious obstacle to the cultivation of the soil. Vescatation is very scarce. There are practically no trees—only wide, open meadows. The people hunt fur-bearing animals, fish and raise cattle and reinwest. The people hunt fur-bearing animals, fish and raise cattle and reinwest. It requires about eight cows to sunport a family, four being milked in the summer and two in the winter. The cattle are very small in size, and are fed hay in the winter. Occasionally they are allowed to go out when there is the slightest break in the weather, but their teats are carefully covered up. Milk is the principal food. This is sometimes supplemented with hares, which are quite abundant, but not very relishable.

The houses are constructed of wood, covered with clay, and, as a rule, consist of only one room, in which the people and animals live together. The unper and better classes are better provided with lodging and food. As a race they are exceedingly courteous and very hospitable, and they are excessively unrelilious concenting points of honor, such as the place at the table and the proper place at festivals.—Northwestern Christian Advoente.

Was Dumb Twenty-Three Years,

Was Dumb Twenty-Three Years.
A cablegram from Paris says: Prof. Drouot, of the National Institute for the Deaf and Dumb, in this city, describes a singular case of a dumb person recovering the faculty of speech. A child was stricken with dumbness, after a serious illness, at the age of two years. He is now 25 years old, and had not uttered a sound since his illness until the other day. He then craved a whift of tobacco, and was vainly trying to make his sister understand what he wanted, when he mechanically uttered the word "tabae." Since then he has continued to speak fluently. rof. DProut examined the sase and declares that it s a strange and rare one, but adds that it can be explained by the fact that the young man was not deaf, only dumb. He considers that his dumbness was due to part paralysis and debitonly dumb. He considers that his dumb-ness was due to part paralysis and debil-ity of the vocal cords, and that speech was regained when, with the lapse of years, the vocal organs gained strength.

Hamilton's Burling Pistol.

In the parlor of the Roy homestead, in Superior, Wis., is the pistol with which Alexander Hamilton fought Aaron Burr on the banks of the Hudson in the year 1806, and the mate of the weapon with which Aaron Burr took Hamilton's life on that occasion. The owner of the relic is Margaret A. Roy, wdow of Vincent Roy. Mr. Roy was one of Superior's pioneers, and over twenty years ago, upon the occasion of a visit to the town of a party of Southern and Eastern speculators, the pistol was presented to him by ex-Senator J. B. Beck. of Kentucky, in return for a favor conferred by Mr. Roy. Mr. Beck received the weapon from from a relative of Col. James Boyle, and subsequently loaned it to a friend, who used it during the civil war. Col. Boyle received the pistol, together with its mate.

from Judge Van Ness, who was Burr's second during the duel with Hamilton. The Burr pQistol, which is an exact duplicate of the other, is now owned by Louis Marshall, son of Col. Thomas Marshall, of Vermont. It has changed hands many times, and finally got nto the hands of Col. Marshall after passing through the Mexican and civil wars. Both weapons were marked by Col. The pistol owned by Mrs. Roy is of the old flintock horse-pistol pattern. Although made of good material and well finished, it is a clumsy-looking affair compared with the pistol of to-day. A Diplomatic Secret Revealed.

There is another curious incident of this time which is not generally known, and of which I was made aware as soon as it occurred, although for a long time I was not permitted to mention it. One of the not permitted to mention it. One of the stock phrases of those arguing in support of the action of the Concert was that "isolated action" on the part of any one of its members would precipitate a most perilous situation. Yet Russia herself deliberately made an "isolated" proposal to King George. The Tsar sent him a message to the effect that if he would withdraw Colonel Vassos and the Greek troops from Crete, Russia would guarantee that within six months the island should be a Principality under Prince George, who should create a gendarmerie, selon ses convenances—meaning, of course, Greek troops preparatory to a coup d'état like that which gave eastern Roumelia to Bulgaria in 1886. Friends of the Greek cause to whom I have told this have excause to whom I have told this have expressed unbounded surprise that Greece did not close with so advantageous an offer. Their suprise rests, however, upon a failure to appreciate the state of affairs at the time in Greece, Public opinion was inflamed to such an extent that this proposal, which would undoubtedly have been accepted six weeks or two months before, had come to be regarded, before the arrival of the Tsar's offer, with intense suspicion.—From "The Wreck of Greece," by Henry Norman, in the October Scribner's.
